Magneto Electrolytic Process Wonderful Animal Trained Destroys Organic Matter.

The installation has just been completed at Santa Monica, Cal., of the first electric plant for the purification of sewerage to be erected in the United States. The system is known as the Harris magneto electrolytic process. It will be ready for operation just as soon as the necessary outfall pipes can be laid. The plant consists of two wooden tanks, each 30 feet long, 2 feet wide and 18 Clarksville, Tenn., Sept. 14.—The Baptist colleges and schools of Ken- inches deep. Each tank is equipped with ten sets of electrodes and ten electro magnets weighing 300 pounds each. The electrodes are fitted with steam pipes for use in cleansing them. The electric energy is supplied by a direct current generator of special construction equipped with a motor and separate exciter. A generator of this pattern is required to obtain perfect results, as the requisite is low voltage and high amperage in opposition to the requirements for power and light.

The purpose of these chambers is to secure an equalized flow through the electric tanks, these sealed chambers, or forebays, the sewage is allowed to flow into the tanks in sufficient volume to cover the electrodes and the magnets to a depth of three inches.
